Are You Listening?

In my job as a Professional Dog Trainer, naturally I encounter a lot of people and their dogs. There is one piece of advice I can give to every single one of you. Listen to your dog with your eyes, your ears, and your spirit.

Take the time to slow down and really watch your dog while being quiet yourself. Now your job is to find out exactly what he doesn't like. Maybe the gear is pinching him, or maybe it has not been used properly and needs to be associated with positive things. Maybe he gets car-sick or reacts negatively in the car as a result of a bad experience at his expected destination.

How about dogs that live in the same house and do not like one another, is it fair to make them exist that way? Day after day having to avoid conflict; constantly building up stress levels with no extended relief. How about letting them choose someone else to live with (they are very good at telling you who they like).

Dogs that have jobs (such as Pet Therapy & Assistance Service) can dislike what they do and need to switch jobs, or take a break.

Dogs are good at mirroring us... if we are upset, mad, full of anxiety; or moving slower, breathing slower.., lots of times they are too. Honor their feelings, respect that they are not perfect; we are not, so why should we expect them to be.

Dogs speak volumes, just listen...
