From Rescue to Restaurateur

Roscoe became a rescue when his owner gave him up. Not long after being adopted, he found himself back at the rescue. That was May, 2010. He was terrified, not trusting anyone. Three months later he met Debbie. Debbie understood that he was just scared. Three months after meeting Roscoe who was still terrified, with no prospects on another adoption, Debbie knew it was time.

In December, 2010 Roscoe went home to stay. In 2014, Debbie and her husband, John, bought a restaurant.

Rescue work is important to them, so they made Roscoe Chief Executive Dog and named the restaurant Roscoe's 12th Street Café. Now in the Grand Slam Plaza in Sarasota, they continue to honor rescue pets through donations and events. On their first anniversary, Roscoe asked our customers to bring in donations of pet supplies to be donated to local rescues.

It was a great success!

Roscoe's 12th Street Café, 1100 N. Tuttle Ave, Sarasota 941-952-1172.
